

George Bowring - A Tale of Cader Idris - Blackmore

George Bowring - A Tale of Cader Idris
R. D. Blackmore

Our narrator, Bob, knows George Bowring from school days. Their lives, dreams and misfortunes are parallel until George marries the woman Bob loves. But still, their friendship endures, despite numerous tensions over the years. The two men go on a fishing trip to Wales, George promising Bob he will see mountains. One of these mountains is the infamous, supposedly haunted Cader Idris. Will George regret taking his friend on the trip? - Summary by Lynne Thompson
